Text Complexity and Reading

Comprehension Tests Erik Castello 2008 Based on the analysis of a specially compiled corpus of internationally recognized English as a foreign language (EFL) reading tests at different levels of proficiency, this volume explores the relation between the complexity of written texts and the difficulty of reading comprehension tests. It brings together linguistic investigations into the text-inherent complexity of the tests and a study of the data derived from their administration to groups of Italian university students. The study of text complexity draws on corpus linguistics, text linguistics and systemic functional linguistics. Both quantitative and qualitative analyses are carried out on the language used in the reading texts and in the related tasks that make up the corpus of tests. The assessment of test difficulty, on the other hand, is informed by research on language testing, and, in particular, by findings and methodologies of Classical Test Theory and Item Response Theory. Relevant aspects of these theories are used to analyze and interpret both the data obtained from the administration of the tests and the data collected by means of feedback questionnaires completed by test takers. The application of such diverse methodologies and the subsequent comparison of the results of the analyses has brought out interesting correlations between text-inherent complexity, perceived test difficulty and actual test difficulty.

Email Pragmatics and Second Language Learners Maria Economidou-Kogetsidis 2021-10-15 This is the first edited collection focusing exclusively on how second language users interpret and engage with the processes of email writing. With chapters written by an international array of scholars, the present volume is dedicated to furthering the study of the growing field of L2 email pragmatics and addresses a range of interesting topics that have so far received comparatively scant attention. Utilising both elicited and naturally-occurring data, the research in this volume takes the reader from a consideration of learners' pragmatic development as reflected in email writing, and their perceptions of the email medium, to relational practices in various email functions and in a variety of academic contexts. As a whole, the contributions incorporate research with learners from a range of proficiency levels, language and cultural backgrounds, and employ varied research designs in order to examine different email speech acts. The book provides valuable new insights into the dynamic and complex interplay between cultural, interlanguage, pedagogical, and medium-specific factors shaping L2 email discourse, and it is undoubtedly an important reference and resource for researchers, graduate students and experienced language teachers.

Text-Based Research and Teaching

Peter Mican 2016-12-26 Contributions in this book illustrate the many methods available for researching language in context and for the analysis of everyday text types. Each chapter highlights language as a resource for the expression of meanings—a social semiotic resource. Text analysis is used to reveal our capacity to formulate multiple meanings for participation in different social practices—in relationships, in work, in education and in leisure. The approach is applied in text-based teaching and in the critical analysis of public discourses. The texts come from different social spheres including banking, language classes, senate hearings, national tests and textbooks, and interior architecture. Text-based research makes a major contribution to Critical Discourse Analysis. The editors and authors of this book demonstrate the value of text analysis for awareness of the role of language for accountable citizenship and for teaching and learning. This book will be of interest to anyone researching in the fields of language learning and teaching, functional linguistics, multimodality, social semiotics, systemic functional linguistics, text-based teaching, and genre analysis, as well as literacy teachers and undergraduate and postgraduate students of linguistics, media and education.

Assessing Young Learners of English: Global and Local Perspectives Marianne Nikolov 2015-10-29 This volume documents international, national, and small-scale testing and assessment projects of English language education for young learners, across a range of educational contexts. It covers three main areas: age-appropriate 'can do statements' and task types for teaching and testing learners between the ages of 6 to 13; innovative approaches to self-assessment, diagnostic testing, self-perception, and computer-based testing; and findings on how young learners perform on vocabulary, listening, speaking, pronunciation, and reading comprehension tests in European and Asian contexts. Early language learning has become a major trend in English language education around the globe. As a result of the spread of teaching English to a growing number of young children, assessment of and for learning have emerged as key issues. In line with this development, there is a clear and emerging need to make early language programs accountable and to assess both the progress children make over time and to quantify their achievement at various stages of development. This volume informs stakeholders about the realistic goals of early language learning, their efficiency, and how much progress children make over time.

Handbook of Second Language Assessment Dina Tsagari 2016-03-07

Second language assessment is ubiquitous. It has found its way from education into questions about access to professions and migration. This volume focuses on the main debates and research advances in second language assessment in the last fifty years or so, showing the influence of linguistics, politics, philosophy, psychology, sociology, and psychometrics. There are four parts which, when taken together, address the principles and practices of second language assessment while considering its impact on society. Read separately, each part addresses a different aspect of the field. Part I deals with the conceptual foundations of second language assessment with chapters on the purposes of assessment, and standards and frameworks, as well as matters of scoring, quality assurance, and test validation. Part II addresses the theory and practice of assessing different second language skills including aspects like intercultural competence and fluency. Part III examines the challenges and opportunities of second language assessment in a range of contexts. In addition to chapters on second language assessment on a national scale, there are chapters on learning-oriented assessment, as well as the uses of second language assessment in the workplace and for migration. Part IV examines a selection of important issues in the field that deserve attention. These include the alignment of language examinations to external frameworks, the increasing use of technology to both deliver and score second language tests, the responsibilities associated with assessing test takers with special needs, the concept of 'voice' in second language assessment, and assessment literacy for teachers and other test and score users.

De wereld als wil en voorstelling Arthur Schopenhauer 2018-03-27 Arthur Schopenhauer aan zijn uitgever, 28 maart 1818: 'Mijn boek bevat niets minder dan een nieuw filosofisch systeem, nieuw in de volle zin van het woord. Het is geen nieuwe weergave van wat er al was, maar een in de hoogste mate samenhangende reeks gedachten die tot dusverre nog nooit in een menselijk brein is opgekomen. Het boek, waarin ik de zware taak heb volbracht deze gedachtereeks op een begrijpelijke wijze aan anderen mee te delen, zal naar mijn vaste overtuiging een van die werken zijn, die later bron en aanleiding tot tientallen andere boeken worden. Deze reeks gedachten was in essentie reeds vier jaar geleden in mijn hoofd aanwezig, maar om haar te ontwikkelen en met behulp van ontelbare opstellen en studies voor mezelf helder te krijgen, heb ik vier lange jaren nodig gehad waarin ik me uitsluitend hiermee en met de noodzakelijke bestudering van andere werken heb beziggehouden. Een jaar geleden ben ik begonnen een en ander in een samenhangend betoog voor anderen duidelijk te maken; hiermee ben ik zojuist klaargekomen. De waarde die ik aan mijn werk hecht is zeer groot: ik beschouw het namelijk als de vrucht van mijn bestaan.'

Arthur Schopenhauer aan zijn uitgever, 7 mei 1843: 'U zult er niet vreemd van opkijken dat ik me tot u wend met het verzoek deel twee van Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung uit te geven, dat ik zojuist voltooid heb. Het zal u echter wel verbazen dat ik dit pas vierentwintig jaar na het eerste deel inlever. Toch is de reden simpelweg deze, dat ik er niet eerder mee heb kunnen klaarkomen, ofschoon ik me werkelijk gedurende al die jaren beziggehouden heb met voorbereidende werkzaamheden. Wat lang moet blijven voortbestaan, komt langzaam tot stand. Dit tweede deel heeft beduidende voordelen boven het eerste en verhoudt zich tot dat deel als een uitgewerkt schilderij tot een voorlopige schets. Wat het voor heeft op het eerste deel, zijn de gedegenheid en de rijkdom aan gedachten en inzichten, die slechts de vrucht kunnen zijn van een leven dat geheel gewijd is aan onafgebroken studie en reflectie. Het is zelfs zo, dat het eerste deel pas door dit tweede deel in zijn volle betekenis naar voren zal treden.'
